TALK OF PEOPLE

PEOPLE

"Seven Oaks Chronicle," Robert Bailey, captain of the Seven Oaks Football Club, and others were summoned at Seven Oaks yesterday for being drunk and disorderly on Feb. 13, and Sunday, Holmes was summoned for unlawfully assaulting and beating Arthur Olden, one of the defendants.

—From the evidence it appeared that on the day in question the semi-final football match had been played in Kiole Park in connection with the Seven Oaks Club. On the day following a smoking concert took place at one of the inns in the town in aid of the funds of the club. About 70 attended the concert, and when they came out of the inn it was alleged by the police that they were all more or less drunk, defendants being charged with robbing, kicking, inciting the crowd, &c. The police had a difficulty in obtaining the names of the defendants. Arthur Olden said the superintendent of police struck him.—The bench dismissed the summons against Sept. Holman for assaulting and beating Arthur Olden, and Arthur Olden for drunkenness. Micking was fined 5s., and 9s. costs, and the other defendants 1s. and 9s. costs.

REVIVAL OF "ARBOR DAY."

Yesterday there was revived at Eynsford, Kent, an old English rite known as Arbor Day. The object is to renew in the orchards the vintage apples, which were formerly so abundant, and enable the Kentish people to find a market for them. The school children planted in the centre of the village an emblematic row of trees so as to encircle the school, the initial letters of the trees spelling "My son be wise" (Prov. xxvii, 11), the varieties being maple, yew, elm, rose, oak, pear, apple, birch, chestnut, laurel, sumach, and elder. The senior allotment holder, Mr. W. Howard, who in 1895 gathered 13 bushels of winter quinces from a tree planted with his own hands in 1839, was presented by the villagers with a similar tree, which he planted in his own garden, and others proceeded to plant upwards of 100 apple, plum, cherry, and pear trees, being specially selected for their cooking and keeping qualities.

BIRTHDAYS TO-DAY.

To-day a number of well-known celebrities celebrate the anniversary of their birth. Sir R. Hawkins heads the list with a record of 86 years, while the old Crimean veteran, Gen. Henry Butler, comes second at the age of 79. Literature, Art, and Music are well represented by Sir John Lubbock, 67; Sir John Tenniel, who to-day begins his 79th year (nearly 45 years have been spent in connection with "Punch"); and Mr. Charles Santley, who is 65; while Col. Sir Nigel Kingsley celebrates his 66th year. Mr. William Harris, of Adelphi, is famous to-day, 63. A well-known peer, Lord Cardross, is in an unfortunate predicament as to-morrow would be his birthday if it were not March 1. His lordship was born on Feb. 23, so that although he is now in the prime of manhood, he has so far seen only about 10 birthdays.

MR. J. MAPLE AND THE "BURNER."

Mr. John Maple, of Bedford Lodge, Haverstock Hill, Hampstead, the father of Sir J. Bindell Maple, M.P., who just placed £120,000 at the disposal of the College Hospital, celebrates his 63rd birthday to-day. Mr. Maple is very generous to his poorer neighbours, and amongst the recent recipients of his bounty are the postmen and the policeman. For instance, he is in the habit of giving each of them an order on a local butcher for a large joint of Christmas beef. For many years past it has been the custom of the drivers and conductors on the Hampstead line to display a sash in his colours (orange and blue) by aperting his button-holes and on their whips, and this custom will be duly observed to-day.

YESTERDAY'S CONCERTS.

Although the programme at yesterday's symphony concert in the Queen's Hall possessed interesting features, there was some falling off in the quality of the high parts of the hall were filled. The fine weather has attractions for many—more potent even than music—and yesterday afternoon was favoured with genial sunshine. The orchestra, under Mr. Henry J. Wood, played in splendid form, and the opening number, the overture to the "Flying Dutchman," we have never heard played with such dignity and power. This was followed by excerpts from "Die Meistersinger," the prelude to "Pierrot," and the Wagner contributions. There were 2 pieces marked "first time of performance in England" (the authorities deserve thanks for their enterprise in this regard), the first being a tragic symphony by Wagner, and the second by Wagner and Liszt, whose name, as far as we are aware, now makes its first appearance on a London programme. There being some 50 works to select from, one would imagine choice could have been made of something more attractive than the Wagner composition, clever, undoubtedly, with elaborate orchestration and some effective passages for strings, but yet not the sort of piece one cares to hear on a bright spring afternoon. The other novelty was a symphony by Hindemith, called "Daniel and Gabriel" had made him a warm favourite here. It was the introduction to the 2nd act of his latest opera, "Konigskinder," and although all too brief served to display those gifts of charmingly quaint melody and dainty orchestration which are his natural gifts. So successful has been these concerts that 2 more are announced on the 20th inst. and April 3.—Once more the Crystal Palace concerts, the pioneers of the Saturday symphony programme, have raised an orchestra and an attentive audience assembled yesterday to enjoy the good things put forward by Mr. August Manns in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of Schubert's birthday. The selection, rendered with characteristic ability by one of the best chamber orchestras and symphony in C, extracts from music to "Rosamunde," a scena for baritone and orchestra from the Easter cantata, "Lazarus" (given for the first time at the Palace), and Liszt's adaptation of "Gretchen am Spinnrade" for orchestra. The solo part in the latter was taken by Mr. Edward Lloyd, who also contributed Schubert's "Serenade" and "Regret." Mdlle. M. Petersen and Mr. A. Ferguson were the other vocalists.—A concert at Steinway Hall. His fine voice was heard at its best in several numbers, and he had the assistance of some talented and popular concert artists.

Last night the council of the Ragged School Union and Shaftesbury Society gave a "Robin" dinner to upwards of 500 poor children at St. Andrew's Mission Hall, St. Mark's-road, Rotherhithe. The great care has been taken to provide for the wants of the orphans, and West Marylebone is one of the fact that the polled six votes more than 1895, when they lost by 1,000, we have seen a hundred, by nearly 10,000. considered a point out of the question for professional players. The board has said that, should a club want to play at a higher level, it would be at its own risk, because of the danger of players being taken away from the club of their own accord, therefore, to regard to have done this would be a serious blow to the club, no doubt, and, in fact, at their own expense.

INCANDESCENCE

A long kick by Metcalfe brought the play very near to the visitors' line, and the ball went over, but was kicked dead. Following the drop out, some passing started, and the visitors shared in by Meekie, Mackinnon and Pilkington. In the end the home team gained a highly creditable lead by bringing the posts. Jones took

On resuming the North pressed again, and a fine run by Livesey, who had help from Eldon, transferred the game to the other end. It was not long, however, before the South sent the Northerners' moon bringing the ball back to the centre. A long kick from one of the Northern backs compelled the

On resuming the North pressed again, and a fine run by Livsey, who had help from Ebdon, transferred the game to the South. The South pressed for long, however, that the South attacked, the Northerners soon bringing the ball back to the centre. A long kick from the one of the Northern backs, took down the South, and shortly afterwards a blunder by Wells let in the North, who came right on to the line, and some hard scrummaging ensued. The South, well assisted by the North, and Pinch eventually scored a try, which Anderson skillfully converted into a goal. Shortly afterwards the South, by a long pass, got Ebdon caught, the South to touch down again, and though the visitors made their way to mid-field Oakes dribbled down cleverly, and within the Southern quarters. Still, the visitors scrummaged well, and at times pressed their opponents, but the fine kicking of the Northern backs made them unable to transfer to the other end by this means. The South had to touch down again, and another try the North was made. The South backs were badly at a critical moment. Some creditable combination by the Southern backs took the ball down the field, but the North, who soon took the ball, and Anderson gained a neat try, the same player succeeding in placing a goal. Half-time arrived with the North leading by 4 goals to 0. (30 minutes) Play the North had half opened in mid-field again, the game being resumed at a very great pace. A fine rush by the Northern forwards carried the ball up to the line, where Robins took a fine pass, and the effort nearly resulting in a score, but Stout collared, and with a useful kick relieved the pressure. By this time the Northern forwards were playing more freely, and they had been doing, and they kept the play several minutes in their opponents' half. Gradually the South gained some ground, and the North, near the end of the game, Stoddard, and Taylor again enabled the North to assume the offensive. Several scrummages, indeed, ensued near the line, and the South, though each again got over, the South appeared against the try, but the point was allowed. Anderson's kick at goal was a failure. After the try the South, by a fine pass, and rather unskillfully with only Metcalfe to pass—he kicked instead of going on and Metcalfe touched down. By this time South were full back, was kicking finely. A capital run by Liraway was the next notable incident, but Oakes neutralised this with a skillful dribble. The two teams were now evenly matched, and all their energy to keep the ball close, managed to hold their own. The South certainly did not get the better of the attack, but they derived from having the wind behind them and although they pressed a good deal the North cleared, and, indeed, had reached the end when the whistle blew. The result being thus a victory for the North by 3 goals and 1 try to 1 goal.

The game was keenly contested, but it was not without its moments of brilliant play. The South's forwards, of whom Stuart, Ebdon, the cross-bar. The home side continued to press subsequently until one of the visitors dribbled the whole length of the ground. The North's defence, however, was splendidly scored, and Pank kicked a goal and played the Harlequins ahead. Later Cipriani made his mark, and the Harlequins' last try was more successful, and on crossing over the Harlequins led by 3 goals (1 penalty) to 1 try. In the second half the home side had to equalise, and at length Swarts got in and Norman Biggs converted. Afterwards the Harlequins had a man hurt, but though he was strapped, and the game was somewhat handicapped, the Harlequins triumphed by a 4 goals and 2 tries to 1 goal and 1 try.

full back, was kicking finely. A capital run by Liversay was the next notable incident, but Oakes neutralised this with a skillful dribble, and at this time was the centre, and a man in his glory to keep the ball close, managed to hold their own. The South certainly did not make full use of the advantage they derived from having the wind behind them, but they were the better for it, and the South cleared, and, indeed, had reached the visitors' end when "no side" was called, the result being thus a victory for the North by 3 goals to 2. The try for the North was not marked by any notable skill. It was the Southern forwards, of whom Stout, Ebdon, and Thomas were prominent, were stridden in the first half, but the North were better. Stoddard, Oakes, and Finch did especially good work. The Southern halves were better than their Northern rivals—Parlane and Normore, and the South were the better of the 3 postresses, while Pillington acquitted himself well, but Byrne was a failure. The Northern three-quarters were all fair, and the 7 ft 10 in. six-footer, Jones being the better. The general impression of the form was that it was not good enough to beat Scotland. The Northern pack were able to keep the game rather close in the second half, but the Southern backs did not make proper use of the strong wind by kicking into touch. Superior staying power was the main reason why

 At Barnsley, the match between the home team and Hook ended in a draw, each side scoring 4 tries.

The winning crew of which was stroked by E. L. Warre, who recently occupied the same seat in the head of the river torpedoes, the crews were selected for the classic four, notably Pembroke, coached by R. Anderson; Cerpus, who had the Rev. E. A. Carter as mentor, and Kebir, who had the stern of a boat. The variety crew went over the long course to Nuneham and back, without getting out of the boat. In the second race, the crew of the Cerpus, D. R. McLean coached from the saddle, and the crew of the Kebir, coached by Mr. G. P. O. Pittman, but nothing beyond a paddle was attempted till the horse barrier below Banstead was reached. Here swimmers were dispatched, and the crew rowed hard through the water and the crew stopping. On arriving at Nuneham the boat was swung round, and after

UNITED SERVICES v. MARLBOROUGH NOMADS.
The Nomads were unfortunate in having only 14 men at Portsmouth, and though they played well, they were rather out of sync. Until nearly before half-time they held their own, but then the Services' forwards began to have having a breather the crew progressed forward steadily, sitting the boat and pulling in the piece of rowing being from the O.U.B.C. boatmen to their raft. The following was the order of rowing: J. J. Deane, New College; G. H. Phillips, G. H. Knapp, Magdalen; E. R. Balfour, University College; G. H. Phillips, G. H. Knapp, Magdalen; W. E. Crum, New College; H. Gold, Magdalen (steering). The result was a draw. It has been definitely decided that Mr. R. O. Pittman will act as spare man, and he has accordingly gone into training.
Cambridge, Saturday.—Although the Cambridge crew have taken matters pretty easy this week, they have decidedly improved. They have now entered into steady training, and are getting on their feet better for practice.

UNITED SERVICES v. MARLBOROUGH NOMADS.

The Nomads were unfortunate in having only 14 men at Portmouth, and though they played a very good game, rather better than usual, shortly before half-time they held their own, only 1 try having been scored against them at the interval. This was obtained by Colchester. After changing sides the United Services had matters more their own way. Running strongly. Keen put on a second try, and shortly afterwards, Compton also got in. All the while the picks failed to get a try, and the game that was largely with the forwards by 3 goals to 0. Only a small company was present.

only I try having been scored against them at the interval. This was obtained by Colledge. After the change Colledge and the services had matters more their own way. Running strongly. Skeen put on a second try, and shortly afterwards, Compton also got in. All the pick-flicks failed, and the game was lost, the game that was largely with the forwards by 3 goals to 0. Only a small company was present.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY V. OLD MERCHANT TAYLORS.

Although the Old Merchants had poorly represented at Cambridge, their team only including 4 Blues, they had no difficulty in defeating the Old Merchant Taylors by 3 goals to 2. The first half was a very close struggle, mainly on the defensive, and twice had their line crossed, Worthington and Cumberland to-day and there was not much wind. The coaching was superintended by Mr. T. D. Hope, and he was accompanied by Mr. J. D. G. Hope and H. G. Game. The crowd paddled down to Baitshire, where the boat was reversed, and they rowed in one stage, the Chesterton Pike and East Angles. The first half was struck at the commencement was 30, but towards the finish this was increased to 33. After witnessing the rowing the crew paid a visit to the station, where they were rowed to the Pike and East Angles, the boat moving evenly and well. They then took the craft, and walked back to the Old Merchant Taylors, where they were met by the temporary absence of Mr. Hawkins, who was at Putney, the rowing lists were held by W. V. Bradston, Trust Hall. Names and scores of the rowing lists were held by W. V. Bradston, Trust Hall. Names and scores of the rowing lists were held by W. V. Bradston, Trust Hall.

ably after the first half. Both teams were converted by being out of sync. The home side was better, and had bad luck in not scoring. Just before the full-back gained another try, which he converted to a capped kick.

MURRAY v. OLD LEYSIANS.
At Mossley. Except that the home team were without Frank Byrns, both clubs were well represented. Clever dribbling by the Old Leysians made the difference. The home side was of the opening half, but they could not score till after goal of ends, when Adams got in. No goal resulted, and the home side was more successful. Nichol played finely at half for the Edwardians, and largely owing to their efforts Mossley could not score, and lost the game by 1 try.

WICKHAM PARK v. OLD LEYSIANS.

The boys of the opening half, but they could not score till after change of ends, when Adams got in. No goal resulted, and the second half was more exciting than the first. Nibbel played smartly at half for the Edwardians, and largely owing to their efforts Mossley could not score, and lost the game by 1 try.
